SUMMARY

Having a great passion for Software Engineering and pursuing a B.Sc. in the field of Computer Science, I am currently working as a Front End Developer at Blubito AG, delivering technical solutions to the enterprise. Throughout my academic and professional development I have acquired the ability to make effective decisions and work together in teams to conquer whatever challenge faces me. I have knowledge of various software engineering programming languages, methodologies, and communicate effectively with a diverse range of stakeholders at all levels.

EXPERIENCE

Front End Developer (React Redux)

Swiss Software Company Developing B2C/B2B platforms

- Being part of an entire e-commerce ecosystem, my colleagues and I have developed an entire Platform for Dropshipping partners, making their work a lot easier and more fluent. The platform's main idea was to show information regarding orders and products, so that every partner could retrieve the needed information as soon as possible. Utilizing different features like filtering, sorting, tri-state selection, expanding, toggling displayed information and others, every user could see something completely different depending on their roles, settings and access. They can generate PDFs, CSV exports, Clearance slips, Barcodes, browse through tens of thousands of orders and articles and so on. For this role my team and I utilized: React.js, Redux, PrimeReact, SASS all of them combined within an Agile work atmosphere - SCRUM.
